79TH MAINE

LEGISLATURE

The week just passed in the 79th Legislature came the nearest to resembling one of the old-time sessions that the present body of lawmakers has seen—although that by no means indicates that the old-time scenes have been re-enacted. Enough of real interest however developed during the week to make everyone sit up straight and listen to what was going on and that was more than had occurred previously, until the Governor sent in his special message about the Budget and highways and bridges.

Rep. Clason of Lisbon opened the bill in the House with a speech on the Governor's message, followed on Friday by a similar speech by Senator Pease of Washington. They are both members of the ways and bridge committee and chairmen of their respective branches of the joint standing committee. Neither gentleman spoke in an antagonizing spirit, but with the evident intent of explaining the committee's position and setting before the people just what the committee intended to do under the laws that enforced its organization and attention to the measures presented to it. It seems to have been done in a fair spirit and with the statement of the Governor, followed by the committee's explanation it is thought that future action will be done on a common understanding and some beneficial results attained.

An interesting incident occurred in the House. The Legislature recently adopted an order that all engrossing should hereafter be done by typewriting, instead of the old method of printing. This has been done so far in this session. Rep. Maher of Augusta on Tuesday introduced an order to return to the printing system, but withdrew on Thursday the order, having been found that the Statutes since 1866 had ordered it done by printing. When the uncertain life of the ink of typewriting ribbons is taken into consideration, together with the importance of preserving for all time the records of the Legislature, the objection to the permanent printers ink seems strong.

The amount of business in eight small compared with previous sessions, but enough is in evidence to prolong the session to about the usual length. Pres. Higgins advised the senators on Friday that it was important to assign committee hearings at every available time, in order that the docket might be cleared and adjournment hastened. The date of adjournment is of course uncertain but it is now very generally talked that a strong effort will be made to wind up the work of the 79th Legislature if possible on March 29, which will be on Saturday and which would make a session of 13 weeks.

The principal event in Legislative circles will be the reception to the Governor on the afternoon of Wednesday, Feb. 19, at the State House and the official legislative ball given by the citizens of Augusta in the evening at City Hall. These affairs are always the social events of a legislative session, bringing people of prominence from all over the State. It is not improbable that, following the reception to Governor Milliken, which usually lasts from about 2 o'clock in the afternoon to 4 and 5 o'clock, some features may be introduced for the entertainment of the large throng of visitors that will be unique and very pleasing. The plans have not been fully decided upon, but enough have been outlined to ensure a very pleasant afternoon for the guests, who usually pass the time in social intercourse and listening to the selections of the orchestra. Dennis' augmented orchestra will as usual furnish music for the reception and ball.

The feature of the Legislative session of Friday morning was the speech of Senator Penock of Washington, Chairman of the joint standing committee on ways and bridges, in answer to the recent message of Governor Carl E. Milliken, in which the Governor warned the Legislature that the Budget system and the "Pork barrel" could not exist together in this Legislature, the senator taking up the matter in behalf of the committee, explaining in detail its position and denying any intent of delaying the progress of the Budget. He reviewed the history of roadmaking in Maine, with the methods and amounts of appropriations for that purpose by the several Legislatures, called attention to the good results received from the expenditure of special revenue appropriations in the past and said:

"The committee believes that this $1,000,000 of road in this State which receives no benefit from the regular highway improvement funds are ex-

GOULD'S ACADEMY

We are glad to welcome Pauline King at the Academy.

Beryl Silver, captain of the South Paris girls' basketball team, spent Saturday and Sunday with her sister, Helen Clark.

Next Friday evening Gould's first and second teams will play Woodstock High school first and second in the gymnasium at the Academy.

Supt. Charles E. Lord was a recent visitor at the Academy and has promised to address the pupils at chapel exercises in the near future.

The girls' debating club have elected Ruth Cole, President; Ruth Kendall, Vice President; and Myrtle Becker, Secretary. Both societies will meet twice a month for debates and extemporaneous speaking.

The Y. W. C. A. held its regular meeting at Holden Hall, Monday, under the leadership of Cleo Swett, the topic being, "Obeying." Myrtle Becker was the pianist. All girls are cordially invited to these meetings.

Corp. Herbert R. Bean, Gould's, 17, will speak at Hammond street church, Lewiston, Feb. 23, in place of the regular morning sermon. Corp. Bean was in Co. D, 103rd Inf., and was severely wounded at the front. "The Religious Side of My War Experience" is his subject.

The grammar school has organized a team, with Rodney Bartlett as captain. They are being coached by Louis Van Don Kerckhoven, and will play the Academy freshmen on the evening of March 7. Robert Hanson is coaching the freshmen, and Mr. Pollard is acting as manager for both teams.

The two basketball games last Friday resulted in a complete victory for Gould's. The girls' team won over South Paris by a score of 11 to 6, while the Academy team beat Norway High school by 19 to 6. Later in the evening a dance at Grange Hall was much enjoyed, music being furnished by Miss Blanche Herrick and Mr. O. B. George, Jr.

The boys' debating club is to be known as the Gould Debating Club, the name being a compound of Gould and Academy. At the meeting Monday afternoon officers were elected as follows:

President—Myron Bryant.
Vice Pres., Robert Hanson.
Sec., George Thomas.
Vice Sec., Harold Bartlett.
Critic, Mason.

Mr. H. H. Bryant of Portland visited the Academy last week and gave the young people an inspiring talk at chapel exercises. Mr. Bryant attended the Academy forty-nine years ago and he recalled some interesting incidents in his life as pupil and teacher. The Academy Library has since received from Mr. Bryant a gift of the following books: "My Country," by Grace A. Tarkington; "World War Issues and Ideals," by Morris Edmund Spear; and Walter Blakes Norris, and "A Manual of Pronunciation," by Otis Ashmore.

BETHEL INN

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Brigham of Newton Centre, Mass., are enjoying a winter outing at Bethel Inn.

Mr. Guy W. Davis of Portland, Me., was a guest of the Inn for a few days last week, leaving for home Monday morning.

Bookings give promise for a full house at Bethel Inn over the week end, as many are taking advantage of the holiday and Sunday for an outing in the country.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Plimpton and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Plimpton of Boston were week end guests at Bethel Inn on the 15th. They were extremely fond of skiing and had much fun on the hill back of the Inn, all being quite proficient in the art. They also made the most possible of the sleighing and skating during their short stay.

Miss Margaret Allen of Chestnut Hill, Mass., left for her home Tuesday morning after a six weeks' stay at Bethel Inn. Miss Allen is a regular visitor at Bethel Inn, having spent six months here two years ago, and since that time she has made many trips here and calls the Inn her "second home." She will be much missed by the guests of the Inn, as well as her many friends in the town.

On Sunday last the party from Fall River, Mass., left for home after eight days of ideal weather for their mountain climbing and tramp through surrounding country. During their stay they climbed Mt. Abram, Sparrowhawk, Farwell and Locke. They also made all the hills and trails nearer the Inn and found time for skating and coasting. On leaving Bethel they all expressed satisfaction with their choice of the Inn for their annual winter outing.

On Valentine afternoon, Mrs. B. J. Rothwell and Miss Winifred Thorpe entertained the employees of Bethel Inn and other friends, at tea served in the Shack which was very prettily and appropriately decorated for the occasion. Delicious cake, candy, nuts, and tea were much enjoyed by all present, and any who could not attend were not forgotten and had their "party" served in a box at home. All enjoyed the occasion immensely. Three cheers for Mrs. Rothwell and Miss Thorpe.

On Saturday evening a merry party from Berlin, N. H., had dinner at the Inn. The table was very prettily decorated with little men and women for favors. They were able to enjoy several dances after dinner before leaving for their train at 8:31. They made the trip to and from the depot in a sled arranged to accommodate the entire party of twenty-two. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. P. Raeburn, Mr. and Mrs. Ray C. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Abbott, Dorothy Bean, Margaret Macy, Isabel Macy, Ruth Caird, Helen Cooper, Sally Churchill, Marjorie Gerlach, Helen Daley, Pauline Jewell, Phil Glover, Everett Ingalls, Chester Goldsmith, Dana Nevins, Gordon Brown, Walter Weber, Gerald McGiney.

ELI F. CUSHMAN

Mr. Eli F. Cushman, a life-long resident of Bethel and a descendant of one of the oldest families, died very suddenly last Friday evening at the home of Walter Emery on Sunday River.

Mr. Cushman was born in Bethel, May 30, 1849, the son of Ira and Virtue Willis Cushman. The most of his life has been spent upon a farm and for the past thirty-eight years he has lived at his home on the Locke's Mills road. He married Ellen Swan on April 5, 1872, with whom he lived until her death some three years ago. Since then he has lived at the old farm during the summer but has spent the winters away from home.

His was a genial nature and he enjoyed the society of friends and neighbors. The Grange served a good deal to him and he had served as Master of Bethel Grange several times. He was also a member of the State and National Grange. On the Thursday night before his death he was installed Master of Bethel Grange.

He is survived by one brother, Isaac A. Cushman of Lashen Falls, and one sister, Mrs. J. B. Hutchins, of Bethel. The funeral was held at the home of Mrs. Hutchins on Monday afternoon, Rev. Mr. Little officiating. Bethel Grange attended in a body. Burial was at Walker's Mills.

A NEW ERA

IN PROSPECT

One of the finest results of the war is the achievement of a league of nations. After the making of the World League for democracy it has the most possibilities of benefit—not only for those nations composing the league but for the whole world. Here at last is a co-operation of the greatest world powers of the day.

Mr. Wilson is to be congratulated on having achieved one of the finest things in our history. He has conducted himself with extraordinary tact and won the good will of the foreign governments and peoples and this has increased our prestige to a very marked degree. We should be proud to have produced the leading figure at the peace congress. For the results attained there would seem to usher in a new era in international affairs. The old idea of imperialism is probably about to disappear—at least some of its most objectionable features are going. The essential thing in imperialism must remain; that is the government of the weak and incompetent peoples by strong and efficient governments of other nations. But probably the old military rivalry and competition of these aggressive and expanding empires is now to be very much diminished to say the least. The rivalry and competition from now on is to be in civil administration instead of military acquisition. And the results achieved and the merits deserved is to be decided by world opinion expressed through an international agency. And furthermore, what is equally important, these peoples governed by outsiders are to have something to say as to who is to have the opportunity of governing them. Surely this is democracy to a degree never reached before in political affairs. Democracy was never so triumphant as before but has now controlled a peace congress.

We need not go so far as to say that all war is over; that is a very large order. Only one third of the world is Christian; as long as two thirds of the peoples of the earth differ with us fundamentally—in religion—we must not be too optimistic. If our claim is correct that the Rhine is the frontier of civilization then not more than 300 millions, less than one fifth of the human race, is civilized. Until at least half of the world's population has reached that stage, it is wise and safe to assume that permanent peace is here. We should remember that in modern times it is the Christian peoples that have done most of the fighting. And, also, that they are the ones that have pushed the progress of the world ahead.

Other peoples in other parts of the world believe in their ideals as thoroughly as we do; in fact they are prone to change less easily because they are much older and their traditions hold them in bondage. Behind the competition and clash of nations and races, and the basis therefore, are ideas and ideals. Until truth is more universal and the development of different parts of the human family has more uniformity we may look, at times, for discord to be settled by violence and war.

However we have much to be thankful for. With democracy gaining ground everywhere, with three of the four great autocracies of the world overthrown and the other one accepting and endorsing the league of nations, with democracy founding and controlling that league, with the two branches of the Anglo-Saxon family the biggest figures therein, and far the most powerful either in wealth, numbers, ability, sea-power or morals. We can face the future confident that wars will be few and far between. And that when they do come the English speaking people will stand side by side and be equal to meeting them.—W. J. U.

79th MAINE LEGISLATURE

titled to some consideration."

Representative Cowan of Winterport gave notice that instead of attempting to revive the bill providing for voting by absent voters, on which an "ought not to pass" report was recently accepted, that he would later introduce another bill providing that voters removing from a place in the State should have their legal residence there prolonged three months.

Both branches adjourned to 10 o'clock Tuesday morning next.

The Maine Legislature on Thursday had three distinguished guests, a joint convention of House and Senate being held for their reception. They were United States Senators Miles Pollock of Washington and Frederick Hale of Maine and Governor Bartlett of New Hampshire. The floor gallery of the House was crowded when Governor Milliken and his guests, accompanied by the Maine senators entered the room and they were received standing.

President Higgins presided at the joint convention and without delay presented Governor Milliken, who in turn presented Gov. Bartlett of New Hampshire. Added interest was felt in Governor Bartlett's remarks, as it is said to have been the first time in the history of Maine that its Legislature has been addressed by the Governor of another State. Governor Bartlett was followed by Senator Hale of Maine, who spoke briefly and then Senator Pollock spoke at some length on the current questions of the day.

The reception given each of the gentlemen and the numerous bursts of applause that interrupted their remarks proved conclusively that Maine was glad to welcome them and were pleased with what they said. It was one of the most pleasant interruptions of legislative routine that has ever been recorded in the Maine Legislature.

IN THE SENATE

The Senate previous to going into joint convention disposed of the Irish Parent contested seat matter. Senator Deering of York, who spoke on Wednesday in opposition to the report of the Senate committee on elections which had reported against Senator Parent of Androscoggin, asked the Chair for a ruling relative to the status of the case, as the vote—15 to 13—having resulted on Wednesday on the acceptance of the committee report.

President Higgins ruled that the vote rejected the report and the action denies the petition of Henry L. Irish of Turner for the seat.

Senator Davis moved that the petition of Dr. Irish be indefinitely postponed, which was voted.

President Higgins requested members to arrange for two or more hearings for the afternoon of Feb. 25, the date of Major General Edwards' visit to Augusta, as he would not arrive until the 3 o'clock train and it was desired that the docket be cleared if possible by the last week in February.

Wednesday's proceedings in the 79th Legislature furnished plenty of thrills for the members and visitors, the contested election case of Irish vs. Parent in the Senate being considered and the House repaid with two speeches by members of the House committee on ways and bridges in answer or in connection with the recent special message of Governor Carl E. Milliken regarding the appropriations being considered by that committee, with a resulting delay in the preparation and presentation of the budget report. The contested Senatorial seat matter resulted in a tie vote on the acceptance of the committee report, which found Dr. Irish elected and entitled to the seat occupied by Senator Parent, which leaves the report in the same state as rejected, as it failed of acceptance. The vote was 15 for and 15 against, President Higgins voting in favor of accepting.

The case was opened in the Senatorial consideration by Senator Thorne, chairman of the Senate elections committee, in support of the report. He outlined the work of and the relation of committees to legislative bodies and said, the committee having performed its duty and rendered a decision in accordance with the evidence presented to it, the whole matter was now up to the Senate itself as a body to determine what course should be taken. He reviewed the evidence in detail and explained why the committee had reached its conclusion.

Senator Deering of York spoke in behalf of Senator Parent. He laid great importance to the decision recently made by Justice Morrill of the supreme court, who decided that Edward R. Parent of Lewiston had been elected to the Senatorial seat from Androscoggin county. He fully reviewed the various points of contention in the testimony, quoted decisions in similar cases, and urged the rejection of the committee report and of the petition of Dr. Irish that he be seated.

The motion to accept the report of the committee, which was that Henry L. Irish of Turner was elected, was then voted upon, the vote being a tie, 15 to 15.

The important matter in the Legislature on Tuesday, the expected outburst against the Governor's special message of last Friday warning the legislators that the Budget system and the Park Barrel plan could not live together in the same house not materializing, was the fight of Representative Barnes of Houlton for pure milk—in behalf of the weak and puny babies of the State who could not speak for themselves. So well did Mr. Barnes perform his task that the bill under consideration, which would permit the mixing of certain "fat" with milk after the cream had been abstracted could be restored to a condition of strength percentage to enable it to be sold as "pure" milk, that is, the fat percentage would come up to or above the 3.25 per cent required by law.

Mr. Barnes said that the great companies handling the bulk of the milk in this State, when they did finally would be as conscientious profiteers as ever existed and he moved the bill's indefinite postponement. An attempt was made by the friends of the bill to have it tabled, and thus save its life for further consideration, but that was lost on a voice vote and when the question was put on the indefinite postponement, not a voice lifted against it.

NEW MEASURES

New measures introduced on Tuesday included the following:

By Senator Walker of Somerset—Act to amend the Revised Statutes providing that when any town shall have been required to pay and has paid tuition, the superintendent of schools instead of the superintending school committee of each town shall make a return under oath to the State superintendent of schools before the first day of September for the preceding school year, stating the name of each youth for whom tuition has been paid, the amount paid for each and the name and location of the school which each has attended.

By Rep. Mathews of Oakfield—Act for better protection against adulterated, misbranded or inferior commercial fertilizer. It provides that every lot of commercial fertilizer which is manufactured or distributed in the State by any person shall have affixed in a conspicuous place on the outside a plainly printed statement, clearly and truly giving the number of net pounds in a package, the name brand or trademark under which the fertilizer is sold, the name and principal address of the manufacturer or importer and a chemical analysis stating the minimum percentage of nitrogen available as plant food, present as nitrates, ammonium salt or organic nitrogen, or potash soluble in water or phosphoric acid, the constituents to be determined by the methods adopted by the association of official agricultural chemists.

Herritt of Andover—Act amending the Revised Statutes relating to the licensing of taxidermists, giving a license by the commissioner of inland fisheries and game to any inhabitant of the State of Maine, not an alien, as taxidermist, who in his judgment is skillful in that art.

Herritt of Houlton—Act to amend the laws of 1917, providing that the Public Utilities Commission shall have authority on petition of any party interested after notice in hearing to order any railroad company to alter any existing branch railroad track whenever in its judgment such alteration is necessary for the reasonably convenient conduct of the business of the petitioner.

New measures introduced Wednesday included:

By Rep. Hildes of Carleton—Act providing for a Highway Reorganization fund. It provides that the State treasury shall immediately after Jan. 1, 1920 and annually thereafter, deduct the sum of $50,000 from the mill tax

HAS SUFFERED FROM TRADITION

Modern Writer Gives New Version of the Character of Washington, Great Soldier as He is Universally Acknowledged. He Was Also a Seer, Deathless Champion of the Rights of Humanity.

More than any other American statesman, more than any other American, Washington has suffered from tradition, writes John D. Barry in the Washington Times.

In fact, I can't think of any other great man in the history of the world who has been damaged in just the same way, through being made to appear so good.

The reason is that he has been pre-eminently the hero.

He is a distinguished victim of the deities we practice on children in the name of education.

Only the very good boys and girls care for the story of Washington and the cherry tree.

The others, the majority, are bored, or amused, or puzzled.

And then there is the saying, dinned into the ears of American childhood, "Washington never told a lie."

It alone alienates vast numbers of children from Washington. In their little hearts it finds no answering echo, no enthusiastic desire for emulation.

For truth telling, much as we love it in children, and much as we labor to graft it on those highly imaginative minds, is often a virtue that develops only with years, related to intelligence and to mature character.

It derives its beauty largely from association with other qualities more sympathetic.

Do Real Damage to Truth.

Self-assertive truth-tellers often seem rigid in character. They do great damage to truth by making it seem, not beautiful, as it should be, but hideous.

Even in minds of maturity, to the reputation of Washington there still clings a suggestion of the comic.

Thackeray did not help the situation when he introduced the youthful Washington into "The Virginians" as a highly self-conscious and priggish colonial.

There is a fine chance for a new biography of Washington, one who will bring out the real man.

Owen Winter made a start some years ago, when he published a little book, emphasizing Washington's more human qualities. But the book was too slight to be comprehensive. Mr. Winter may yet write the complete history needed by the world of today.

For today, of all times, the world ought to reflect on the service of Washington in the making of this nation and on the attitude of Washington toward the future of this nation.

Washington a Seer.

Since the Spanish war the Farwell Address, once a classic and apparently just about as much alive as most classics, has fallen into disfavor. We don't hear of its being "pointed to with pride" as often as we did.

Perhaps if we do go back to it we shall find that Washington, besides being a soldier and a statesman, was a seer.

And a seer is much more interesting than a little boy that chops down a cherry tree or a man that has never told a lie.

A seer has a way of projecting himself into the future and finding a new life there.

As a prophet Washington is a vital force today. But he is a force that has been consciously and deliberately disregarded.

Washington, the hero of Valley Forge, was essentially a man of peace. He saw that the happiness and security of this country lay, just as the hap-

WORMS MAKE CHILDREN SICK

Signs of worms in children are: Do-ranged stomach, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, offensive breath, hard and full belly with occasional gripings and pains about the navel, pale face of leaden tint, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose, itching of the rectum, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points sticking out on tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

The safe method for ridding the child of worms is to use Dr. Tru's Elixir.

Mrs. William G. Bonin, of Caddo, Oklahoma, wrote regarding Dr. Tru's Elixir: "We have used it for our children for the last twelve years and certainly know the value of it."

You can buy Dr. Tru's Elixir wherever medicine is sold. Pleasant tasting—gentle acting. The family laxative and worm expeller for children and grown folks.—Adv.

pieces of an individual life, in a policy of noninterference.

And as soon as this country ceased to follow this policy Washington foresaw complications.

On the surface it seems strange that a man whose inheritance and ways of life were aristocratic should be regarded as the father of American democracy.

And to the present-day point of view it is all the more strange when we recall the reproach made against Washington that "the great Virginian held slaves."

But Washington, to be judged fairly, like everyone else, must be considered with reference to his time and surrounding conditions.

Washington deserves little credit for not yielding to the temptations to assert his aristocratic lineage by becoming a Tory.

He was directly affected by the unfair attitude of the mother country in imposing taxation without representation. What he did was a natural outcome of what he was.

Where he did merit the highest honor was in his rising so magnificently to his responsibilities and opportunities.

A man selfish and arrogant might have exacted more for himself, might have striven to establish himself as a permanent power over the nation he had helped to create.

But there is no evidence that Washington ever felt such a temptation. Aristocrat as he was, and slaveholder, he was all the more extraordinary in being able to turn from the prejudices of his training to a realization of the democratic ideal.

Perhaps we can reach a little clearer understanding of what Washington was and of what he did by placing him in our own time.

It was as if, at the present time, a man of distinguished position and of wealth, were to become a leader in the labor movement.

For, from the point of view of England, the colonies were humble folk, mainly tillers of the field, workers in small enterprises.

To their cause Washington gave dignity, as well as marvelous personal courage. With his lattered, half-fed, poorly trained troops he defeated the professional soldiers of England and the Heesian mercenaries.

He had, of course, the superlative advantage of being sustained by the power of a sublime moral idea, all the more effective because it was opposed by the weakness that goes with self-consciousness and contemptuous superiority.

Really Deserves More Credit.

Washington has not been accorded by the world the credit he deserves for his share in establishing democracy as a working force in a nation.

We are likely to forget that democracy, while he fought for it, was not accepted by the world as practicable.

To a few it was a beautiful theory, an ideal. To the many it was impracticable, a denial of what they regarded as the natural wisdom of human beings in large masses to govern themselves.

From France, mainly through Rousseau, had come the great democratic theory. But France had yet to seek its establishment in the blood of the French revolution.

Our next Washington is not likely to be a soldier-statesman. He will not lead in a war between nations or between foes identified with any geographical limits.

He will give dignity and coherence and organization to a cause now in need of a powerful champion. He will strive, not against taxation without representation, but against production without fair compensation.

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH
Service next Sunday at 10:45. Sunday School at 12:00. In the evening the union service of the Christian Endeavor and Young People's Christian Union will be held in the Congregational chapel.
The sermon last Sunday was on the "Great Drive," which the Universalist churches, in common with other religious bodies in entering upon, to deepen and quicken spiritual life, increase the membership in church, Sunday School and Young People's Union, and raise $1,000,000, for its missionary and church extension work. The plan is being developed; the whole denomination is beginning to feel the enthusiasm which the leaders are injecting into the work, and the watchword is "Over the Top." This will be the greatest work in the history of the Universalist church.
Our Women's National Missionary Association are raising a Jubilee Fund of $100,000, in honor of the 100th anniversary of the work of the Universalist church in America. The anniversary occurs next year.

"Where's the flour?" she asked.
"I didn't get it," replied the youngster. "I was frightened by the man."
"Nonsense, he won't hurt you!" admonished the parent sternly. "Go back at once and get the flour!"
But again the boy came back with out it, and this time his eyes were full of tears.

"He's too big!" wailed the child. "I'm afraid of that man. Each time I went to see him, he said, 'All right, sonny, I'll send you in a minute!'"

There are actual photographs of charging troops, "going over the top," at counter-gone to action, of aeroplanes and Zeppelins fighting, of submarines, of the great naval battles of Jutland and the Falkland Islands, of the attack on the Dardanelles and the picturesque campaigns in Palestine, Mesopotamia and South Africa. In short, the reader of these sumptuous volumes can sit quietly at home and see the dramatic events of the World War unfold themselves before him in one impressive panorama. The gift is most valuable and timely and the hearty thanks are hereby extended to Mr. Upson by the officers and patrons of Bethel Library.

TO AILING WOMEN

A Little Sound Advice Will Help Many a Sufferer in Bethel

No woman should consider herself healthy and well if the kidneys are weak. Poisons that pass off in the secretions when the kidneys are well, are retained in the body when the kidneys are disordered. If the kidneys and bladder become inflamed and swollen worse troubles may quickly follow. This is often the cause of bearing-down pains, lameness, backache, etc. Urine poisoning is also frequent cause of headaches, dizzy spells, languor, nervousness and rheumatic pain.

When suffering so, try Doan's Kidney Pills, a remedy that has proven effective in thousands of such cases. Let a Bethel woman tell of her experience.

Mrs. Walter E. Bartlett, Chapman St., says: "I feel I can honestly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills and I gladly do so. I used this medicine some time ago and the results I received were in every way satisfactory. Since then I have had no return of kidney trouble."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Bartlett had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgs., Buffalo, N. Y.

church will hold a Colonial supper at the vestry on Thursday evening of this week. It is expected that waitresses in Colonial costume will be a feature of the affair, with decorations in keeping. Costumes are being planned by members of Rumford Mechanics Institute for the masquerade ball to be held for members only at the Institute on Saturday evening of this week, Washington's birthday, when one of the enjoyable affairs of the season is expected to take place.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Kerr are planning on a month's sea trip to some interesting place, probably to Cuba.

Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Gonyea are enjoying a pleasure trip which is including Boston, New York, and probably Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin L. Griffin attended the Governor's Ball at Augusta this week.

Superintendent L. E. Williams of the Rumford schools hopes that the Oxford County Teachers' Convention set for May 20th, at Buckfield, may be arranged to be held at Rumford instead. At this May convention, it is probable that Dr. A. O. Thomas, the State Superintendent, Miss Florence M. Hale, rural agent for the State, and Mr. Smith of Washington, D. C., vocational director for the United States, may be among the speakers on the program, thus making something very much of interest for all listeners.

Among the articles which will be included in the annual town warrant is one asking for an appropriation of about $1,000 for the purpose of buying more equipment for the manual training department in the local schools. Greater interest is shown this year in this department than ever before, and the rooms are in use two nights a week, as also on Saturday mornings.

An effort is to be made in town to establish an occupational school which as Superintendent Williams has decided, is the best solution of the problem of the subnormal child. There are about 40 such pupils in the town schools at present, and these children, taken from their studies at 12 years of age, at which time they cease to make satisfactory advancement in regular school work, and placed in an occupational training until the age limit is reached, would be well fitted to take up the work to which they plan to devote their energies in securing a livelihood. It is thought that a school room for such a purpose might well be established on the Island, in such a location that it could be heated from the same plant which will heat the new fire station, which it is planned to build on the lot next to the Municipal Building.

Plans for a summer school in town for the benefit of regular school pupils who may have failed to pass the year's examinations, and for other pupils who desire regular work and amusement through the summer vacation, are to be brought up at the town meeting, it is understood. These plans suggest that four rooms in the Pettengill school be opened for a term which may begin July 7 and continue for six weeks, with half the day's work to be regular schooling, and the remaining part of the day devoted to supervised play ground work, picnics or excursions with the teachers, and with Raymond Staples to instruct the boys in baseball and such

BOLSHEVISTS

What does Bolshevism mean? That's the question one hears everywhere. Government officials, from President Wilson and Vice President Marshall down, have insisted that it must be stamped out in America. That this is no idle threat is evidenced by the actual work of deportation of undesirable aliens. Commissioner of Immigration Caminetti says that 6,000 of these are to be shipped back to Europe at once. It appears likely, from official information, that this will be but the beginning of a clean-up in the interest of America for Americans.

But WHAT does Bolshevism mean? Why is it so bitterly attacked and so little explained? And when the explanation is finally made, it is the Russian Bolshevik theory that is handed out to us by red-eyed agitators of the anarchist type, who being unable to furnish sensible opinions about the American form of government, are never relied upon by intelligent people as authorities on the affairs of countries as far removed as Russia. Bolshevism, generally speaking, is an European evil, that represents discontent, and is a fester that breeds wars. We will not attempt to analyze Russian Bolshevism here. But there is an easy answer to the question: What is Bolshevism in America, and the people of this country should hasten to acquaint themselves as to the meaning of this strange doctrine.

Senator Nelson of Minnesota, has done a good service by inserting in the Congressional Record the aims of Bolshevism in the United States as proclaimed by their leaders in this country. The statements should be made into an official document and circulated everywhere. The publication from which the material is collected, is called "Hunger—The International Revolution." This publication purports to stand for a lot of things that no intelligent person wants, and it promises that "the aims of the present system may be presented and subjected to analysis." It is printed in Minneapolis, a city in which there is no "hunger," but almost every paragraph glances with the lie that all people work are "hungry," and oppressed by the capitalist class.

American Bolshevism is an insidious and rabid form of class hatred; it is anarchism under a new name; that seeks respectability by attaching itself to European "isms." It is Socialism with the brains picked out. It is not much different from the I. W. W., only if such a thing is possible, it has less sense. It is a thing that should be understood thoroughly in the United States, because it needs only to be understood to become an outlaw among intelligent and respectable people of every class.

The documents which Senator Nelson has produced weave together, the most un-Christianlike, debased theories, that could be collated. The whole underlying purpose is to create clamor and build on class hatred. Government is nothing, except a thing to be destroyed. Not even a substitute is offered. The whole doctrine is untrue to anything that can be classed as modern civilization. It is very doubtful whether Bolshevism in the United States is up to the standards of Russia, or Germany.

It is Europeanism in the days before the French Revolution. This Bolshevism is nothing that need be feared in the United States. It needs to be understood. The light would destroy it. The people may be trusted to see that it is properly taken care of.

BOLSHEVISM IN EUROPEANISM

The American soldier returning from a foreign war against autocracy can hardly be pleased to find his own country honeycombed with the strange delusions that he found in Europe. This soldier sympathized in a measure with the people who were groping for something better than kings, emperors, queens and princes, have supplied in the last two thousand years. But it will be exceedingly strange if he does not recognize Bolshevism, I. W. W., anarchism and Socialism as "European plans"—unchanged by their transit across the ocean.

The American soldier is apt, also, to recognize that there is a good deal of official aristocracy, seeking to control his movements, and to direct him and his movements, instead of letting him work out his own destinies in the good, old-fashioned American way that was so satisfactory to our father and our forefathers, who laid stone upon stone upon the monument of individual liberty and freedom.

Vice President Marshall has issued a creed of Americanism, and it is good stuff. He assumes that ours is the best Government ever formed on earth, and that it should be preserved as it has existed since it was given to us by our fathers.

Old Hanson, the mayor of Seattle, has shown how a revolution, started under the guise of a strike, should be handled.

Europeanism has its virtues in Europe, but they have a lot of things over there that we do not want in the United States.

Therefore, there should be joy in the thought that human beings who have come here to destroy our forms of liberty, are being loaded onto ships and sent back to their former countries where they and Bolshevism, Socialism, etc., were born.

AMERICANIZATION The Department of Education at Washington is pressing its work throughout the country to Americanize the foreign born. The effort is persistent to break up those communities that conduct their affairs in foreign tongues. The war put 433 German newspapers out of business and these papers reached three million subscribers a day. Germany was the worst offender in peace times in perpetuating the customs of the parent nation. But in our antipathy and distrust of Germany we should not overlook the fact that ten million papers in foreign languages are circulated in America every week. There were approximately 33,000,000 people in this country in 1910 who were either born abroad or under foreign home conditions and neighborhood environment. In all there are thirty-eight different language groups in the United States. The war has brought the need to millions of these people, and most of them have proved loyal. But the troubles with the disloyal ones make it very plain that the bonds should be drawn very tight, and Americanization must become an accomplished fact rather than an ideal.

HIS LABORS ENDED

People's Acclaim of Washington as
They Have Journeyed to Annapolis
to Lay Down His Sword

(Poem written for the unveiling of the tablet at Severn Cross Roads, where Washington passed on his way to resign his commission at Annapolis.)

This roadside sings again today—
Here where the barren branches sway
And keen December winds sweep by
Beneath a cold and azure sky—
The old road echoes to some tread
Of morning in a vanished hour
When here the red-checked courier sped,
And here the young land's pride and flower

Of glory and achievement came
To add fresh glory to his name.

The villages had all come out,
To hear the news, to watch about
To catch some glimpse far up the way
Of Washington—who from the fray,
And from the council and the crest,
Was riding down his sword to lay
Once more upon his country's breast—
While he stepped back to that sweet rest

He yearned for Yonder sounds a call
A bugle's note, mayhap the fall
Of horse-hoofs on the old State road—
From every hamlet and abode
Men, women, children, hurry forth,
The wind is sweet, though west by north,
And keen with that sharp chill that comes

When on the hill the partridge drums.

This way they look, this way and that!
They'll know him by his coat and hat;
They've seen his face in picture, so
There won't be any doubt they'll know;
But deep within their hearts they sigh
They'll know him by his forthright eye,
His noble mien, his lofty frame,
His sitting in with road and sky
As nature fits all great forms in,
And signs the portrait with her stain.
The young folk chatter, smile and grin,
The old are prone to be severe,
And stretch each vertebra of the ear
To catch that sharp clicking sound
Of the stage coach thundering on its way.

The best beat on the frozen ground
That knows the kind of time to play.

Some in small groups together drawn
Wait on the green bench of a lawn,
And these in somewhat more seclusion—
The wisdom of his art debate.
One rises who defends the side
Of his great land, and crows with ire
'Tis only a great man's way, indeed,
To give up lofty place, serene
From knave of such high degree,
Putting ambition aside, and fame,
Upon the altar whence they came—
His country's heart—and stepping down
From all the lure of high renown,
Take his old place in life again,
One with all kindred gentleness!

Some tell the story of his trip,
While others bark with bawling lip—
That perling at old Frances too
With those who'd been his aide at war,
Tears in his eye, and in his heart
That aching that they feel who part
With comrades and with friends who've spent

Hours with them in the battlement
Of life, of fate, of hopes and dreams,
And here adventures long before
Then to the barge they see him go
At Whitehall Ferry, bowing low
In all that stately form of grace
At each bowed head and tear-stained face.

face.

And then that silent, sweet adieu
At Paulus Hook—and words and few,
A silent waving of the hand
Back to his high and faithful band,
Then with his face set hither—strong
In the high purpose he had made
To heed no imploring of the throng
But lay at his country's feet his blade.

Then the triumphant jaunt begun—
Those days of journeying in the sun;
The plaudits of a nation's best
Poured round him at each stopping place.

And on the roads from mile to mile
Always some patriot in whose breast
Inviolate love had left its trace,
Coming to bow by the road he'd take
And kiss the cold ground for his dear sake.

Philadelphia's loud acclaim,
Then Baltimore—her royal bounty
Poured as 'twas never poured before,
By every county seat and county—
To pay due homage to his name,
And give him a welcome at his door

Of Maryland he'd remember long
As life should last or dreams prolong
Their memories in his noble soul.
Then once again the coach wheels roll,
He's coming—down the General's Way!
The old State road is God's today!
God's—and beneath his sparkling sun—
God's and the General Washington!

Ten miles beyond the cross roads lies
The capital; o'er yonder rise
The Severn smiles 'neath azure skies,
Where Indian Landing sleeps beside
The murmuring music of that tide,
Whose song—as light as beauty—cheers
The silvering romance of the years.
He'll pass here soon; and this way rings
The music of the moral Had kings
Such love from those they rule as he—
Ah well, what kingdoms we should see!

But he has struck down kings; his sword
Had fought for freedom and the Lord.
And now the cross roads teems with life,
The hour has come, the keen wind's
knife
Is cutting under skin and bone,
But who cares for the cold—that lone,
Grave figure shall reward each heart!
An echo see how sharp ears start.
It is the General—hooray!
And down the General's Highway
The yeomen who have seen him pass
Follow in cheering groups—one mass
Of burning and of patriot zeal
To be first followers at his heel.

It is the General—hooray!

This roadside sings again today.
This nation sings, its heart still bowed
Before him in those dreams that crowd
The moving canvas of the years.
There, like a peer among his peers,
The vision looms again, and he
Stands in that room as still may see,
One hand behind his back, and one
Laying that sword his bravery won
Upon the table. A shaft of light
Across the granite chamber steals;
A prelate in the foreground kneels.
A consecrated hour, indeed,
That hour of high, exalted need,
That noble and immortal act—
His spirit gleaming above its fact,
His soul of beauty so made one
With the high soul of Washington!

Tired Nervous Mothers
Should Profit by the Experience of These Two Women

Buffalo, N. Y.—"I am the mother of four children, and for nearly three years I suffered from a female trouble with pains in my back and side, and a general weakness. I had professional attendance most of that time but did not seem to get well. As a last resort I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which I had seen advertised in the newspapers, and in two weeks noticed a marked improvement. I continued its use and am now free from pain and able to do all my household work."—Mrs. B. R. ZULLINGER, 324 Wales Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Portland, Me.—"I had a displacement and suffered so badly from it at times I could not be on my feet at all. I was all run down and so weak I could not do my housework, was nervous and could not lie down at night. I took treatments from a physician but they did not help me. My Aunt recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I tried it and now I am strong and well again and do my own work and I give Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound the credit."—Mrs. JOSEPHINE KROGER, 226 West Race Street, Portland, Me.

HOW TO CONSTRUCT GOOD DAIRY BARN

Entire Frame May Be Made of Plank at a Saving.

GOOD SIDING IS DESIRABLE

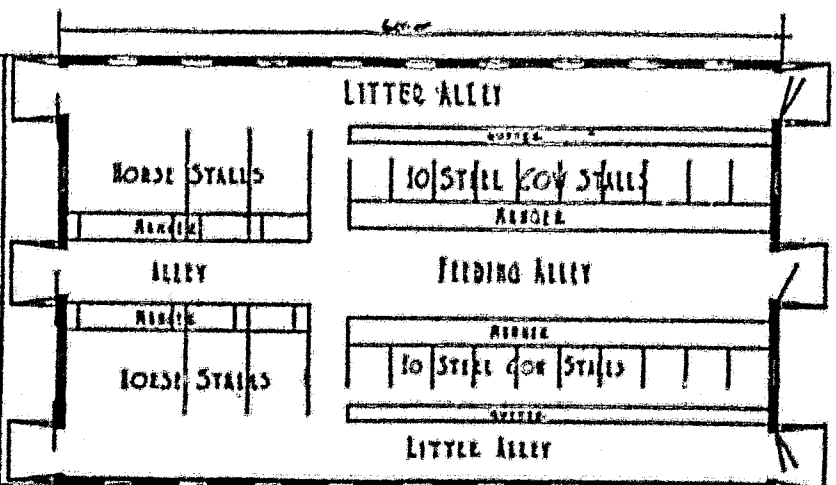

Building Should Have Plenty of Windows and Ventilating System Is Profitable Investment.

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building work on the farm, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 127 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose three-cent stamp for reply.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD. When you build that new barn there are certain things that you will want, and in order that you may get them it is well that you consider what they are. We are supposing that this is to be a cow barn, or at least that there is to be a stable connected with it. You will probably use concrete for the floor and perhaps for the foundation, and also for the drive floor, if there is one.

With a good wall the silos can be of plank—in fact, the entire frame may be made of plank at a considerable saving. You will want a hay loft over the cows, even though you only use it for straw, because you can get the room here at less expense than elsewhere. If considerable storage room is desired there should be a gambrel roof. This will give you more room for the same height of posts.

A barn for two rows of cows should not be less than 30 feet wide; and anywhere up to 38 feet is better. If you cannot readily get sawed timbers as you want for the beams, you can build them up from plank, spiked and bolted together, with the joints broken.

In a modern plank frame cow barn the stalls are of 2 by 8s, run crosswise, and rest on built-up timbers or girders which are supported by iron columns in the row of stanchions, entirely out of the way.

Good Siding Desirable. It will pay you to get a good grade of siding. You will get a better barn. It can be made to look better and can be kept looking better, for of course you will want to paint it.

Have plenty of windows. The rule is 4 square feet for each cow or horse. Windows on the end will admit more light than when on the side.

When there are two rows of cows it is an advantage to have them face in toward the center of the barn; but there are good reasons also for having them face out. The barn can be cleaned out and kept clean easier with the latter arrangement.

Now that silos. You may not be ready to build, but you can at least plan so that when you do build you will not make a big work getting ready. Also make some provision for running water in the barn. In short, plan for the future and make every step count toward the final result. Take, for instance, the 80-foot gambrel roof barn illustrated in the accompanying diagram. It is a commodious combination barn. It provides accommodations for 20 dairy cows and 5 horses. The large central feeding alley is a feature that will be appreciated by many.

This barn is well lighted and well ventilated. The size is sufficient to meet the needs of the average farm.

We wish to say that an investment in a building of this character should be regarded in the light of a permanent improvement from which a saving will be effected, and not as an item of unnecessary expense.

Ventilating System Important. One of the best investments the dairy farmer can make is a ventilating system for his barn.

Almost every dairyman is satisfied beyond a doubt that ventilation in his dairy barn is a necessity, but very few dairymen have any idea what constitutes a proper ventilating system. Ventilation is not a hard problem if you do not take into consideration the fact that you want to conserve the animal heat, as it is the heat from the animals which is going to keep the barn warm.

A proper ventilating system will circulate the air through the building rapidly enough to keep the air approximately pure, and still conserve the animal heat in the stock room. If the ventilating system is to do the work it must be planned according to the building, to the height of the ceiling, number of head of stock, size of the windows and doors and other openings. Each barn presents a ventilating problem of its own.

The only kind of a barn which needs a ventilating system is a tight barn. If the barn is not built tight there is no necessity for a ventilating system, because all that a ventilating system can do is to supply fresh air to the animals at all times, take the foul air out of the barn, and do this without destroying the purpose of the barn, which was to keep the animals warm.

BANISH ALL NEEDLESS CARE

Too Many People Add Unnecessarily to Burdens Which They Have No Need to Carry.

Humanity is prone to worry, and some portions of it have a good right to be anxious. Many burdens press constantly on all earnest natures, and the routine performance of almost any duty involves more or less drudgery, and perhaps friction. Most people, however, add unnecessarily to their

HOME TOWN HELPS

PLAN FOR FUTURE GROWTH

Reasons Why Town's Development Should Be Looked To Many Years Before It May Come.

This is the spirit of the publication, but under the heading "Prevision, Prevention and Preparedness" the editor lays down certain principles that apply generally and will be repeated in all sorts of variations at the joint housing and planning conference. These principles run as follows, and are worth quoting:

"City planning is the exercise of municipal imagination. It is the scientific and expert vision of inevitable city growth and the preparation of plans to provide for that growth. It is municipal prevision, municipal prevention and municipal preparedness. City planning is the civic sense that refuses to build today what must be torn down tomorrow; that refuses to believe that the future will not be greater than the past; that refuses to act on the theory that the growth of ten years gone by will equal the growth of ten years to come."

"City planning is the wisdom that insists the distrust of the future insures distress in the future; that doubt of future growth insures beyond doubt an unhealthy growth; that lack of preparation for growth means future expense in correction of unregulated growth."

"City planning is economy. It is not the economy of doing without. Doing without is not economy. It may be extravagance. A city that does without parks and playgrounds in abundance is extravagant in life and health. A city that ignores an opportunity for the acquisition of the things that make for health and happiness may lose the opportunity altogether."—Minneapolis Tribune.

ONE'S OWN PLEASURE FIRST

Something for Man Who Is Going to Cultivate a Garden to Keep in His Memory.

Do not seek to set the world on fire, the neighbors to talking, or the passerby to wondering. Garden for yourself alone, for we should garden for pleasure only and if we stray far from this fundamental it were better we should not garden at all. Do not desire too much, but build simply, yet have every desire carried out as far as you may, for the garden must be yours. If it is built to accord with another's taste it were better to sell it to that other and build the next one for yourself. The home garden is for the affections and if it is well ordered it will satisfy and insofar as you are satisfied you have succeeded. If you have built according to another's ideas the garden is not worth the while to you. Therefore we should garden for pleasure, for contentment of mind, whether we grow calliopes or carnations. Grow the very best flowers you may, not necessarily the best kind, but the best of their kind. Do not spend money for rare or costly material. It is far better to grow a splendid geranium than a sticky orchid. And look ever to quality rather than quantity. If your taste runs rather to fruits or vegetables, rather than to flowers, indulge it. You are to garden for yourself, not for the rest of us.

Trees for the Home Garden.

Trees about the house should have their uses. In some cases some are needed for ornament alone, but these generally should be near or at the rear, serving as frame and background, one or both uses being sufficient for planting. Some very showy flowers are borne on trees and occasionally a skyline is needed. But trees are for shade, not always to be cast for man's direct benefit, but shade for other plants; or to aid in the conservation of moisture for other plants. Perhaps a windbreak is needed and the matter of protection is the tree's strongest recommendation. Therefore when planting trees on the home grounds plant first where actually needed; you may not find place for more. In a small garden few or no trees should be used; one or two is sufficient. The place should be framed or outlined with shrubs.

Keep Roof in Repair.

If roofs were repaired periodically, the house owners' expenses would be a great deal less. A large number of people neglect the care which should be given to the upkeep of their roofs, consequently they become damaged beyond repair, and the owner is compelled to go to the unavoidable expense of paying for the installation of new roofing.

After heavy rainstorms, especially in the spring and winter months, the roofing should be thoroughly examined for leaks which may develop into trouble causing a waste in the material and result in a great deal of damage to the interior of the home.

If You Want a Clean Town.

Let's not overlook the fact that a clean town depends much more upon the individual home than upon clean up campaigns. Every citizen wants a clean, healthy town. Then let every citizen clean his own property, then ask his neighbor to do likewise. But don't ask the neighbor to do it first.—Bethel Signal.

The DAIRY

TROUBLE IN MAKING BUTTER

Churning is Sometimes Prolonged for Several Hours Without Obtaining Product.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The farm buttermaker sometimes fails to obtain butter after churning the usual length of time; in fact, the churning is sometimes prolonged for several hours without obtaining butter. The causes of the difficulty, together with the remedies, are as follows:

1. Churning temperature too low. It may be necessary, under exceptional conditions, to raise it to between 65 and 70 degrees Fahrenheit.

2. Cream too thin or too rich. It should contain about 30 per cent butterfat.

Printing Butter.

3. Cream too sweet. If ripened to a moderate acidity it will churn more easily.

4. Churn too full. In order to obtain the maximum concussion the churn should not be more than one-third full.

5. Ropy fermentation of the cream prevents concussion. This may be prevented by sterilizing all the utensils and producing the milk and cream under the most sanitary conditions. If additional measures are needed, the pasteurization of the cream, with subsequent protection from contamination, and ripening it with a good starter will be effective.

6. Individuality of the cow. The only remedy is to obtain cream from a cow recently fresh, or cream that is known to churn easily, and before ripening mix it with the cream that is difficult to churn.

7. The cow being far advanced in the period of lactation. The effects may be at least partially overcome by adding, before ripening, some cream from a cow that is not far advanced in the period of lactation.

8. Feeds that produce hard fat. Such feeds are cottonseed meal and timothy hay. Linseed meal, gluten feed, and succulent feeds, such as silage and roots tend to overcome the condition.

DISEASES OF DAIRY CATTLE

Production of Milk Can Be Materially Increased by Preventing Many Disorders.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In an effort to maintain or increase our live stock supplies, the reduction of the toll taken by disease should not be overlooked. There are a large number of diseases which are very common and which seriously affect the dairy industry. Among these are contagious abortion, tuberculosis, infectious puerperal fever, etc., which in the past have greatly reduced the milk production of our herds.

Tradition has it that in remedying these conditions the value of preventing and combating disease is in the ratio of 10 to 1; in other words, "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." As a matter of fact this estimate is too low; probably 100 to 1 would be much nearer the truth. In spite of this fact, however, preventive measures are not so well known or so effective that disease can always be prevented.

In dealing with contagious diseases the basic principle of prevention is to keep carriers of infection away from the herd. Next in importance is maintaining the surroundings in a sanitary condition. Following this, the animal's natural resistance to disease should be increased by natural and occasionally by artificial means. Ordinarily, disease strikes about the country only in the bodies of diseased animals or at tacked to some intermediate object.

Wilbur Day as compensation for destruction of cattle by bears in Township No. 21, Washington county.

COMMITTEE HEARINGS

Committee hearing on Tuesday in closed sessions by the committees on Insane Hospitals, Salaries and Fees, Sea and Shore Fisheries, State Lands and Forest Preservation and Public Health.

Insane Hospitals went over in detail the appropriations asked for these institutions, all of which had been explained at the Budget hearings.

Salaries and Fees went over the Androscoggin and Arundel county officers' salaries and their clerk hire. The same matters for Cumberland were referred to the Cumberland county delegation, which will have a hearing in Portland and later report to this committee. An "ought not to pass" report was asked of the committee on the bill on act relating to fees paid to registrars of deed, which would require them to pay to the county treasurers certain fees received from newspapers for drawing up and attending to certain advertisements.

State Lands and Forest Preservation heard more people in favor of the bill to improve the growth of white pine in Maine and equalize the taxation of timberland, a few differing with some of its provisions. State Land Agent F. H. Colby appeared for the $15,000 appropriation for general forestry purposes. He said the department had no funds for work outside the Forestry District, although supposed to father all bills in connection with forestry work of any kind.

Public Health heard numerous proponents of the dental registration bill. Dr. L. D. Bristol, State health commissioner, advocated the bill providing for local health officers in every town. Rep. Phillips of Bar Harbor explained and favored the bill requiring that no person having syphilis shall marry until he or she has a certificate from a physician that he or she is cured.

Sea and Shore Fisheries listened to much argument in favor of the repeal of the lobster license law and strong endorsement of that law. Rep. Perkins of Boothbay Harbor saw no good in the present law and Rep. Hatch of Stonington and Rowell of South Thomaston agreed with him. Harry O. Wilbur, member of the Sea and Shore Fisheries Commission, and A. B. Greenleaf of Southport strongly favored the retention of the present bill.

Committee hearings on Wednesday were many and well attended.

The Judiciary heard the county almshouse plan and the DeForest Keyes claim, the former a new measure and the latter having appeared before each Legislature since 1905.

The County Almshouse system for the care of paupers and those who may need more than temporary relief was ably championed by Chairman B. T. Whitehouse of Portland, or the State Board of Charities and Corrections, with supporting remarks by S. J. Mitchell of Sanford; R. H. Bean of Portsmouth, N. H., where a similar plan is in use; Rep. Cochran of Monmouth; Sec. Bagley of Charities and Corrections; while Rep. Lausler of Middleford, Mrs. Geo. P. French of Portland and Senator Hicker of Hancock opposed it.

Judge G. C. Wing of Auburn appeared in behalf of the Keyes claim, bringing a new proposition, asking instead of a direct appropriation for reimbursement, authority to enter the supreme court and enter a common suit to recover. The amount paid the State by Keyes for titles to lands which had been forfeited to the State for non-payment of taxes was $18,002.23. It was found that the lands he had bought did not exist, but the State has never seen fit to return his money.

Legal Affairs heard the arguments for authorizing Androscoggin county to raise $125,000 for the repair and enlargement of the county buildings. Land Agent F. H. Colby thought seafarers should have a lien on logs.

Interior Waters heard lengthy arguments of M. B. Tracy of Auburn in favor of his bill for the creation of the People's Rights and Water Power Commission. Numerous persons appeared for and against the bill relating to better protection on steamers on inland waters.

Inland Fisheries and Game had an interesting talk from Albert Stadimir of Buffalo, N. Y., federal game officer in charge of the district of the 17 Eastern, Northeastern and Southeastern States, on the enforcement of the game laws. Several local matters were considered.

Ways and Bridges continued their hearings relative to appropriations for highways and bridges all over the State, hearing several Arundel county matters and a few from the central part of the State. W. H. Monroe changed the usual custom when he asked authority for the American Thread Co. to erect a bridge over the Seboc river in Mills without cost to the State, county or town. He will probably be granted that authority.

Committee hearings on Thursday included Education, Ways and Bridges, Taxation, Legal Affairs.

Education heard proponents on numerous measures, no opposition appearing to any. A very interesting incident took place when the measure providing compulsory education for deaf and dumb children was heard. Miss Fannie P. Kimball of Portland told her story. She was born deaf and dumb; was educated at the Maine School for the Deaf at Portland, later taking a college course and for the past 11 years a teacher in the School for the Deaf at Portland. The surprising part was that she stood before the committee, a model, fine looking young lady and with the utmost ease and in a conversational tone related what education had done for her. She not only spoke readily but in a pleasing tone, so much so that no one could have mistreated that she was born a mute and was dumb. She also reads the lips as easily as she speaks. When she had finished a spontaneous burst of applause broke out from every member of the committee.

and the spectators—a little tribute to her accomplishments that did not seem to displease her.

The committee also heard the merits of the act to make Columbus day, Oct. 14, a school holiday in the interests of securing a uniform system of school banks, etc., holidays; the act providing for better school facilities in unorganized territory, for which the School Department asks $35,000, an increase of $7,000. This territory included 47 per cent of the State's area, includes property valued at over $50,000,000, which pays into the State over $160,000 for the school fund and receives back but $27,000; several resolves reimbursing towns for loss of State money through clerical errors in reports; and two teachers pension cases. One was Lydia M. Chadwick, aged 72, who taught 42 years in Maine schools, largely in Thornton Academy, but who is barred from a pension by the present law; the other Miss Mary A. Carroll, aged 82, who taught 48 years in Hancock county schools but was not teaching when the law took effect and is now enjoying but half pension, or $125 a year. Full pension is asked.

Taxation had a long hearing on taxation of incomes from certain intangible property, Portland sending a large delegation in opposition. Prof. O. A. Bullock of Harvard School of Economics, explained the bill. Rep. Allen of Portland, Prof. Orin G. Hornell of Bowdoin College also favored it. A. F. Laughlin of Portland, P. A. Gillin of Bangor, Robert T. Whitehouse of Portland, A. S. Littlefield of Rockland, R. O. Brewster of Portland and F. E. Timberlake of Phillips spoke in opposition.

Ways and bridges had a distinguished number of speakers on the proposed Memorial bridge between Kittery, Me., and Portsmouth, N. H.; including Governor Milliken of Maine, Governor Bartlett of New Hampshire, Admiral C. J. Bush, commandant of the Kittery navy yard. No opposition appeared to the plan. Horace Mitchell of Kittery conducted the hearing. P. J. Deering, chairman of the Highway Commission, Governor Milliken, Governor Bartlett, Admiral Bush, Judge B. F. Cleaves, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, State Treasurer J. W. Simpson, Selectmen J. A. Walker of Kittery and A. A. Cole of Kittery all favored favorable action.

Rep. Roberts of Lyman and Selectman Tibbets of the same town favored the resolve for $3,000 to aid in rebuilding Haccoun Gully culvert in that town. Mt. Desert, Tremont and Southwest Harbor people urged passage of the resolve for aiding in repairing the 4 1/2 miles of road in Mt. Desert and Southwest Harbor beginning at Carroll's Hill.

Judiciary heard arguments in favor of permitting Southport to secure a supply of pure water; to make valid the organization of the Second Christian Society of Kittery in 1843, and authorizing Presque Isle to raise money for a site for the Northern Maine Sanatorium. R. T. Whitehouse, chairman of the State Board of Charities and Corrections, spoke for the better protection of Children measure, which Mrs. W. H. Newell of Lewiston opposed, claiming that county agents were now doing good work and that it would be unwise to take their appointment from county commissioners or to replace them with State agents. Rep. Gray of Troy favored raising the pay of special deputy sheriffs from $3 to $4 per day, as did J. F. O'Connell of Milford, C. W. Stephens, Penobscot county commissioner, Sheriff Woodman of Washington county, and W. H. Fisher of Augusta.

The Committee on Agriculture heard the matter of co-operative agricultural work between the college of Agriculture of the University of Maine and the United States Department of Agriculture. President Allen and Dean Merrill of the U. of M., favored the bill for $40,000 for control of contagious diseases among cattle, as did Boyden Heare, State sanitary livestock commissioner. Col. E. H. Parkhurst and President Higgins of the Senate spoke for the Eastern Maine Fair resolve.

Rep. Bean of Minot asked reimbursement to the amount of $65, being the difference allowed for the death of a cow, said to be afflicted with tuberculosis and her real value. The State allowed him $10 and he claimed that the cow could not have contracted the disease in the short time between being tested for it and the time of being killed per order of the State and that the veterinarian was at fault. Commissioner Heare opposed the resolve. Dr. Eagle, veterinarian of Auburn, who examined the cow, thought that Bean should receive more than the $10 allowed by the State.

if part of the proof is the quality of the food must have been good if not excellent.

The afternoon meeting was declared open, so many outside friends and neighbors came in to enjoy the work of installing the officers and listening to the program.

Brother Herman Mason installed the officers, assisted by Daisy Philbrook of
